music s fourth wall and the rise of reflective listening examines fundamental changes in concert hall listening since the enlightenment with an emphasis on changing assumptions about the very act of listening itself author mark evan bonds shows how reflective distanced listening previously limited to professional musicians and connoisseurs ousted the earlier ideal of resonant self forgetful listening and for better or worse it is the ideal of reflective listening that has prevailed ever since the literary relationships among the synoptic gospels have long attracted scholarly attention which has now generally coalesced into the predominant two or four source hypothesis and leading alternatives the griesbach or two gospel hypothesis mark used matthew and luke and the farrer hypothesis luke used mark and matthew thomas j mosbo here argues that no theory of synoptic relations is adequate unless it can satisfactorily explain the extensive middle third of luke s gospel the so called travel narrative 9 51 19 27 where luke departs from the order shown in either matthew or mark and assembles stories and sayings that develop themes concerning discipleship that are important to luke mosbo examines this narrative as a composed narrative not merely an assembly of materials and finds that luke has reordered materials taken from matthew and from mark in a very particular manner he then examines luke s purposes in the gospel as a whole then addresses objections raised by q advocates to the hypothesis that luke knew matthew at length mosbo offers his own hypothesis of synoptic relationships including the relationship between matthew and mark do you struggle to connect the dots between the bible and your life while christians instinctively want to apply scripture we encounter difficulties that can discourage us and diminish our engagement with god s word indeed biblical application has suffered in various ways in the church everything from neglect to abuse to contempt responding to such challenges beyond chapter and verse provides a biblically based rationale for the practice of application and then proposes a biblically consistent method for application the book is substantive but accessible relevant for believers generally as well as preachers it begins by sketching the broad theological context of bible application relating it to the gospel generally and to sanctification specifically the heart of the study then synthesizes key old and new testament passages relative to the process of application building on this foundation the book sets forth a sensible approach for arriving at legitimate applications of scripture a rich assortment of positive and negative case studies illustrates the method motivating believers to apply the scriptures for themselves
